

UPEACE Certificate Programmes are designed for candidates who would like to take part in the UPEACE campus life and learning environment, but are unable to do so for an entire year. These may be working professionals or undergraduate students in the field of Peace and Conflict Studies in their final year of study, who are interested in a study abroad opportunity. These certificates are designed to deepen participants' knowledge in the topic of their choice. They are deliberately flexible, allowing for a hybrid option that incorporates both on-campus and online learning modalities.

Certificates incorporate eleven or twelve credits worth of courses, depending on the modality that best suits each participant (number of on-campus vs. online credits). Diplomas are earned by completing all certificate requirements, in addition to an independent research project.

IS IT FOR YOU?

Do you believe that teaching people of all ages how to live in cultures of peace in harmony with each other and our environment is integral to the survival of our planet?

Are you a working professional giving workshops or teaching in classrooms interested in learning new pedagogies, or a student of education who would like to expand your knowledge of how to integrate nonviolence and social justice into your classroom?

Do you want to spend time in a challenging environment that will push you to discover new things about yourself in a global university with students and faculty from all over the world?

WHAT WILL YOU LEARN?

The certificate programme in Peace Education is designed to be flexible so that participants can direct their own learning. The content of your study will be defined by the courses you choose. Regardless, all certificate graduates will gain:

- Skills in how to plan, execute and evaluate educational processes for all age groups in different contexts
- The ability to integrate peace pedagogy into facilitation or classroom teaching to help transform community spaces into cultures of peace
- An understanding of intersectional gender mainstreaming as it applies to education and NGO work

WHERE WILL YOU BE STUDYING?

This certificate is offered by the internationally-recognized Department of Peace and Conflict Studies of the University for Peace. As a leading center of peace and conflict research and education, the department offers M.A. programmes in International Peace Studies, Media and Peace, Gender and Peacebuilding, and Peace Education. It caters to a diverse, global body of students. Instruction is provided by a group of leading scholars and expert practitioners in the field.

The University for Peace - established by the UN General Assembly in 1980 - has been training leaders for peace for the past four decades. It is the world's leading educational institution in the field of peace and conflict resolution in its pursuit of the mandate given to it by the General Assembly, namely "to provide humanity with an international institution of higher education for peace and with the aim of promoting among all human beings the spirit of understanding, tolerance and peaceful coexistence, to stimulate cooperation among peoples and to help lessen obstacles and threats to world peace and progress, in keeping with the noble aspirations proclaimed in the Charter of the United Nations."
