

UPEACE Certificate Programmes are designed for candidates who would like to take part in the UPEACE campus life and learning environment, but are unable to do so for an entire year. These may be working professionals or undergraduate students in the field of Peace and Conflict Studies in their final year of study, who are interested in a study abroad opportunity. These certificates are designed to deepen participants' knowledge in the topic of their choice. They are deliberately flexible, allowing for a hybrid option that incorporates both on-campus and online learning modalities.

Certificates incorporate eleven or twelve credits worth of courses, depending on the modality that best suits each participant (number of on-campus vs. online credits). Diplomas are earned by completing all certificate requirements, in addition to an independent research project.

IS IT FOR YOU?

Are you a professional or practitioner concerned about the new forms of human mobility that are tightly connected to environmental factors and climate change?

Do you want to deepen your understanding of how climate change is affecting human displacement in different regions around the world?

Would you like to acquire a transdisciplinary perspective on climate-related human mobility while gaining practical skills relevant to your work?

Struggling to find time to engage in a long-time learning process? This hybrid programme offers you the possibility of combining on-campus learning on our highly-diverse campus (6 weeks) with online courses on our virtual platform.

WHAT WILL YOU LEARN?

This certificate programme in Human Mobility, Conflict and Climate Change is designed to combine theoretical and practical approaches to climate-related human mobility. Through a combination of lectures, knowledge exchange and online learning, you will:

- Gain a better understanding of conceptual approaches and practical issues in the areas of human mobility, conflict, climate change and climate justice
- Identify current trends on climate-related migration flows and geographic locations affected by climate change
- Engage in and design processes for conflict transformation in scenarios involving climate-related human mobility
- Perform an intersectional conflict analysis of climate-affected areas and their link to human displacement
- Advise decision-makers, policy-makers and organizations on the complex set of relationships established between climate change and human mobility

COURSES

This certificate programme consists of 11-12 credits, which can be distributed between face-to-face and online courses. Please find an example of a customized programme below:

- Climate Change and Human Mobility (2 credits – online course)
- Climate Change Adaptation and Justice (2 credits – online course)
- Tools for Conflict Resolution Transformation (2 credits – online course)
- Gender and People on the Move (3 credits - on-campus course)
- Education in Emergencies (3 credits - on-campus course)

Please note that this is a sample programme based on the courses being offered for the current academic year. The course offering per academic year will vary in accordance with visiting professors' availability. The final version of our academic offer will be posted in June 2020.*

WHERE WILL YOU BE STUDYING?

This certificate is offered by the internationally-recognized Department of Peace and Conflict Studies of the University for Peace. As a leading center of peace and conflict research and education, the department offers M.A. programmes in International Peace Studies, Media and Peace, Gender and Peacebuilding, and Peace Education. It caters to a diverse, global body of students. Instruction is provided by a group of leading scholars and expert practitioners in the field.

The University for Peace - established by the UN General Assembly in 1980 - has been training leaders for peace for the past four decades. It is the world's leading educational institution in the field of peace and conflict resolution in its pursuit of the mandate given to it by the General Assembly, namely "to provide humanity with an international institution of higher education for peace and with the aim of promoting among all human beings the spirit of understanding, tolerance and peaceful coexistence, to stimulate cooperation among peoples and to help lessen obstacles and threats to world peace and progress, in keeping with the noble aspirations proclaimed in the Charter of the United Nations."
