IS IT FOR YOU?

- Do you envision yourself involved in peacebuilding and peacekeeping efforts in local, regional, and international contexts?
- Do you want to understand more about how gender issues should be considered while being conscious of gender sensitivities surrounding this work?
- Do you want to work with local or international organizations and NGOs working for peace in local, regional, and international contexts?
- Do you want to study the systemic nature of gendered inequalities through oppression (such as those based on race, ethnicity, religion, ability, and class, among others)?
- Are you a peace practitioner working with local or international organizations and working for peace in local, regional, and international contexts?

WHAT WILL YOU LEARN?

- Identify how gender functions through media
- Apply an intersectional gendered lens to conflict situations
- Develop an in-depth understanding of the United Nations System and related organizations working for peace in local, regional, and international contexts
- Engage in research that enables you to study and analyze gender as an asset and, if necessary, be a catalyst of change
- Apply an international gender-based lens to conflict situations
- Widely known gender forks through the lens

WHERE WILL YOU BE STUDYING?

The University of Peace – established by the UN General Assembly in 1980 – is located on a beautiful campus for peace on the Panamanian Atlantic coast. It is the world's leading educational institution in the field of peace and conflict resolution. The University offers courses in Bachelor, master's, and advanced research programmes, as well as the University for Peace Masters, and the University for Peace Doctoral Programme. UPEACE is also home to the Peace Research Centre, a group of leading scholars and expert practitioners in the field.

The University for Peace offers a unique educational environment for students from all over the world. It is a truly international university where students and faculty members are drawn from every corner of the world. UPEACE is a truly global university where students and faculty members are drawn from every corner of the world. The University offers courses in Bachelor, master's, and advanced research programmes, as well as the University for Peace Masters, and the University for Peace Doctoral Programme.

The M.A. in Gender and Peacebuilding is offered by the internationally-recognized Department of Peace and Conflict Studies. The Department is composed of a group of leading scholars and expert practitioners in the field of Peace and Conflict Studies. The Department offers courses in Bachelor, master's, and advanced research programmes, as well as the University for Peace Masters, and the University for Peace Doctoral Programme.

HOW TO APPLY?

1. Go to www.upeace.org and find the programme of your choice by visiting the Programmes section. We recommend you visit the Programme-Specific Courses link to learn more about the specific courses offered in the M.A. in Gender and Peacebuilding.
2. Once you've been accepted at UPEACE, you'll receive a letter from the Admissions Office with further instructions on how to proceed.
3. You will also have the option to choose an internship at a relevant organization to complete your M.A. in Gender and Peacebuilding.

SCHOLARSHIPS & WAIVERS

- UPEACE Alumni
- Documented refugee or asylee
- Members of the official diplomatic missions to the UN
- Costa Rican citizens and residents (host nation status)
- Professors from a partner university
- Current, full-time UN employees and volunteers
- CAN network or national of a signatory country of the U.N.
- Previous funding has been obtained (such as those based on race, ethnicity, religion, ability, and class, among others)
- Previous funding has been obtained (such as those based on race, ethnicity, religion, ability, and class, among others)

Tuition Fee

The University of Peace is a public institution in the field of peace and conflict resolution. The University offers courses in Bachelor, master's, and advanced research programmes, as well as the University for Peace Masters, and the University for Peace Doctoral Programme. The University for Peace is the world's leading educational institution in the field of peace and conflict resolution. The University offers courses in Bachelor, master's, and advanced research programmes, as well as the University for Peace Masters, and the University for Peace Doctoral Programme. The University for Peace is the world's leading educational institution in the field of peace and conflict resolution. The University offers courses in Bachelor, master's, and advanced research programmes, as well as the University for Peace Masters, and the University for Peace Doctoral Programme.